There's no doubt about it – visitors to Indiana's Cool North love everything Amish. The scrumptious food, intricate hand-stitched quilts, finely crafted furniture, the ever-present horse-drawn buggies, and the quiet farmsteads are truly captivating. There are many ways to get to know the Amish people, who live a lifestyle of simplicity, foregoing modern amenities such as electricity, cars and telephones. Join us (and our local Northern Indiana Step-On Guide) as we immerse ourselves in all things Amish in Northern Indiana. Although our adventure has a huge focus on the AMISH COMMUNITY of NORTHERN INDIANA, we have timed this trip to coincide with GOSPEL WEEK at BLUE GATE THEATER. The first theater was built in 1798 and over the years, the district has grown to 40 theaters that are now considered “on Broadway.” In 1927, the street was nicknamed the “Great White Way” due to the bright white lights that illuminated the streets and advertised the multitude of shows. During this period, the shows were mostly comedies and operettas, and some vaudeville. Many of the Broadway shows that we know today were developed in the 1940s. Rodgers and Hammerstein were the pioneers who first combined song, dance, comedy and drama to create the modern musical. The lights are still shining bright, theater attendance is thriving, and to be “on Broadway” is now the most highly respected achievement for theater professionals.
